EDITORIAL

The main purpose of research is to inform action, to prove a theory, and contribute to developing knowledge in a field or study. Knowledge pertains to facts and reality based on study findings processed by the human brain through precise methodology justification. But the recognition of this knowledge based on access to others. For this target writing the research in English has a very importance due to English is the world language. The written language has an important social and educational function.

The researchers in general and especially who are within Arabic area must write more research in English language to publish their ideas to the world. For this target the journal of researches economic and management issues this special issue in English, it covering various economic and management topics, and their vision is to reach the required quality in scientific research.
